BY PRIMATE MILES O'REILLY. Treez years ago to-day We raised our hands to Heaven, And on the rolls of muster
Our names were thirty-seven;
There were a thousand bayonets,

all the swords were thirty-seven, As we took the oath of service With our right hands raised to Heaven.

th Iwas a gallant day, In memory will adored, lost day of our sun-bright nupitals
With the masket and the sword!
Shell rang the fifes, the lungies blaved,
And bursth a cloudless Heaven

I woulded a thousand beyonets, and the swords were thirty-seven Of the thousand stalwart hayonets Two bundred march to-day; Hondreds lie in Virginia awamps, And handreds in Maryland clay;

And cury the deep, long, blossed sleep, of the battle-field's holy ground. For the swirds—one night, a week ago, The remnant, just eleven, Gathared around the banqueting board With each for thirty-terms, There were two limped in on crutches, and the hall each but a hand

And other hundreds, less happy, drag Their shattered limbs around,
